

(5) Designed to tell you where right and where wrong

= finding someone who will agree with you

* if you want to be agreed with then 0

(6) Designed to introduce new understandings and truths --> change and many

= insisting on own terms or mode for help/counsel

* if you ar not eager for anything then 0

=====
=====

Submission

= reflexive verb to someone

= do whatever leader says

= getting their permission for every detail of life

= place self under for order

(1) to larger issues then you can see

(2) within own life

= letting your sense of mission fit beneath another's = solo

Accountability

= one of primary aspects of submission

= giving an account (inventory) of thoughts, actions, attitudes

= present all the data so someone else can spot problems

= periodic check-ups

= someone help you blow the whistle on self

Person to whom truly accountable:

(1) The one you have determined beforehand that you will tell the sin or temptation you now face.

(2) Someone you are nervous about them finding out.

(3) Not just a friend or someone who "understands" you
- feeling that they don't is probably good.

(4) Person who knows your balance sheet (assets and liabilities).
- confession

(5) Someone who can stop or change your cause with word.